What a farce! No indication of how many councillors there are at present, no indication of your intentions for changes. How can we offer sensible views without easily accessible information? On googling I see 60 councillors - but that should have been in your headline. Come back with a map showing current and proposed divisions and a sensible response might be possible. A cynic might think this is a fraudulent attempt to cloak your boundary changes in a claim to have "Consulted the People" whilst doing nothing of the sort!
